About the Sunnyside Neighborhood

Although it's only 2 square miles, big things are happening in Sunnyside. In 1900, the Sunnyside landscape attracted Italian vegetable farmers and many of their old fruit trees still survive today. Remarkable gardens and mature tree-lined streets surround historic homes, most of which were built prior to 1930. The diverse residents and "front porch" street design makes Sunnyside a true urban neighborhood.

Bounded by I-70 to the North, Federal Boulevard to the West, 38th Ave. to the South, and Inca St. to the East, Sunnyside is now home to roughly 4,000 residents, primarily young couples and families drawn to Sunnyside's historic charm and urban convenience. By the end of 2015, Sunnyside and Highlands will also be served by RTD rail transit connecting these urban neighborhoods to both WheatRidge/Arvada and Longmont/Boulder, with a station near 41st Avenue and Fox Street. Convenient public transportation further extends the exciting developments that are already underway in Sunnyside.

What is SUNI?

The neighborhood is represented by one of Denver's strongest registered neighborhood organizations, Sunnyside United Neighbors, Inc. (affectionately called SUNI). Founded in 1989, SUNI has been instrumental in building community, renovating area parks, developing business zones and putting on neighborhood events and socials. SUNI works actively with the City on FasTracks, code and zoning issues, tree planting, liquor licensing, graffiti control, and neighborhood beautification. Additionally, SUNI stays connected with neighbors through our quarterly newsletters, new resident mailer, website and social networking sites. Welcome to the neighborhood!

Sunnyside United Neighbors, Inc. is a non-profit volunteer organization composed of residents, businesses, schools, and churches that reside or are located within the boundaries of the Sunnyside neighborhood in Historic Northwest Denver.
